

PENSION "SHAVING" EVIL IS CAUSE OF VIGOROUS PROTEST

Notary's Fees Exacted Because of Government Rule on Pay Warrants.

When is a United States pension only part of a pension?

Right now, is the answer of $3,000 Government pensioners in the Washington agency.

"Shaving" of pension checks, the petty expense of cashing quarterly warrants for pensioners, is a burden, pensioners complain, needlessly imposed upon them by Government regulations.

Refusal of the United States Treasury to cash pension warrants of pensioners in this district is said to be the cause of much complaint among pensioners. Because the warrants are drawn upon the assistant United States Treasurer at the subtreasury at Baltimore, the Washington office refuses to cash pension warrants here.

Fees for Notary Services.

From 25 to 50 cents to a notary, sometimes an extra fee for legal execution of pension vouchers, another fee of a quarter or half-dollar to pension attorneys or "warrant shavers," or to spend money with merchants to secure real money for their Government pension warrants is the burden upon many Washington pensioners.

It is said that Washington banks, even national institutions, refuse to cash pension warrants, unless the pensioner is identified, or has an account at the bank.

This condition is said to be a great hardship upon many persons living in Washington who draw quarterly pensions. They either have to have their checks "shaved" to cash them, or spend money with merchants to secure real money for their Government pension warrants is the burden upon many Washington pensioners.

That warrants of the Washington agency will not cash the checks is that they are drawn upon the assistant United States Treasurer at Baltimore, and the Washington office refuses to cash pension warrants here.

Must Go to Baltimore.

Captain King says until six years ago pension checks from his agency were issued upon the local, Baltimore and New York depositories, but to avoid confusion in accounting, a plan was adopted to draw all checks of the Washington agency upon the Baltimore subtreasury. Now all pensioners in the District, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and Delaware, with all naval pensioners in the South, and all pensioners in foreign countries receive checks upon the Baltimore subtreasury.

Pensioners without bank connections are, therefore, said to be dependent upon merchants or "warrant shavers" to cash their checks for a consideration at a loss from their face value, aggregating thousands of dollars each year.

What Mr. McClung Says.

Lee McClung, Treasurer of the United States, said:

"It is impossible that warrants shall be made payable to the subtreasury here. Baltimore was chosen to believe, because it was deemed suited to the needs of the greatest number."

"Veterans living in Washington are not, so far as I am informed, subjected to discount when they take their warrants into shops here, but get the full equivalent of the warrant in cash."

GALLINGER MEASURE TO TIDE CONTAGIOUS DISEASE FUND OVER

Resolution Will Keep Work Going Until More Money Is Available.

"Under normal conditions, and if we have no more lepers to care for in the meantime, the sum provided for in the joint resolution introduced by Senator Gallinger will be sufficient to maintain the contagious disease service until July 1, when an appropriation of $15,000 for personal services becomes available."

This was the statement today of Health Officer Woodward in regard to the joint resolution introduced by the chairman of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia authorizing the extension of the $10,000 limitation for salaries in this branch of the Health Department to $12,000. It was transmitted through the Secretary of the Treasury in lieu of the communication sent by the Commissioners to the Vice President and Speaker of the House, which asked that the limitation be increased to $12,000.

While making no comments the Commissioners are using every means to impress upon Congress the seriousness of the situation. Unless additional funds are provided it will be necessary to further reduce the working force of the contagious disease service, which already has been reduced to a minimum.

Anticipating several months ago that the fund would be practically exhausted before the beginning of the fiscal year, the Health Officer directed that the sanitary inspectors aid in the work of the contagious disease service, although, without medical knowledge, they are not equipped for this branch of the work.

In other ways, the Health Officer says the utmost economy was exercised, notwithstanding which the department today is practically without funds for the prevention and control of contagious diseases.

With six patients in the smallpox hospital, a number of smallpox suspects in quarantine, a leper, and a glanders patient to care for, the Health Department is confronted with a serious problem, the solution of which now depends upon the action of Congress.

"BEFORE AND AFTER" TO BE PRESENTED BY COLUMBIA PLAYERS

Laughable Three-Act Farce Will Be Offered Next Week.

Leo Dietrichstein's laughable farce in three acts, "Before and After," under the direction of Edwin H. Curtis is rapidly shaping itself for presentation at the Columbia Theater Monday night in a manner that promises to do honor to the Columbia Players and assure an evening of delight for the following of that organization.

"Before and After" is one of those frothy offerings that is concocted for purposes of entertainment only, but that it is well designed is apparent from the increasing popularity that has marked its existence from the date of its first New York production, at the Manhattan Theater, December 12, 1906. Its story revolves around a wonderful powder, discovered by Dr. Philip Laitham, that possesses the remarkable power of compelling amiability on the part of the most unlikable subject.

Heading the cast is a quartet of fun makers that should keep things moving. This quartet includes A. H. Van Buren, Frederick Forrester, George W. Barber, and Everett Butterfield, who have been cast for the parts originally played by Fritz Williams, George C. Boniface, Jr., Thomas A. Wise and Mr. Dietrichstein himself.

That the play will be mounted in keeping with the usual Columbia standard is promised, and the management feels assured of the popularity of the offering.

ABORNS WILL OFFER MARTHA AND CARMEN DURING FINAL WEEK

Edith Bradford Will Be Heard for First Time This Season.

The last week of the Aborn English Grand Opera Company's successful run at the New National Theater is announced with two popular operas as the offerings for a half week each.

George Bizet's last and greatest composition, "Carmen," will be given four times, starting Monday night; and Friedrich von Flotow's most familiar work, "Martha," one of the lightest, but one of the most enjoyable offerings scheduled in every extensive grand opera season, will occupy the four performances, beginning Thursday night.

"Carmen" is a musical setting of one of the most celebrated stories of literature and the drama, embodied first in the novel by Prosper Merimee and later in the famous play of the same name; a narrative full of romance, character, dramatic action, and local color, laid in the Spain of long ago, and centering about the gypsy coquette, Carmen.

Edith Bradford, who has charmed music lovers of Washington before in the title role of "Carmen," will return to the Aborn fold at the National to assume this, which is considered her best part, and in which she will appear at all performances. Jane Abercrombie will be most happily placed, also, in the soprano role of Micaela, with its two beautiful arias so well suited to her voice.

The two tenors of the past week, Salvatore Sciarretti and Domenico Russo, are to appear alternately as Don Jose, the ill-fated lover of Carmen. William G. Stewart and Herbert Waterhouse, who are to appear at all performances during the final week, will be cast for Escamillo and Zuniga, respectively. George Shields comes from Baltimore for the role of Don Pepe, and Philip Fahn, for Remendado, and Zoe Fulton, for Mercedes. Giuseppe Angelini will conduct at all the presentations of "Carmen."

"VAGABONDS" OFFER "THE LOTTERY MAN" AS BILL NEXT WEEK

Belasco Patrons Will See Farce Comedy With Reputation.

At the Belasco Theater next week "The Vagabonds" company will present Rida Young's farce comedy, "The Lottery Man," which had a year's run in New York, and was seen at the Belasco here early last fall, with Cyril Scott as the star of the original cast.

The plot deals with a reporter who offers himself as a husband to be won through a lottery conducted by his paper. The scheme is a great success, over 200,000 tickets being sold. Falling in love with a beautiful girl in the meantime, his diary may be imagined when the winning number of the lottery is held by a freakish old maid. However, everything ends happily. At the close of the performance there will be presented Sir Henry Irving's one-act success, entitled "Waterloo," in which Fuller Melish will play the role created by Irving, and Lionel Belmont will play the role Mr. Melish played when a member of Irving's company. As these brilliant players are not in the cast of the preceding comedy, this added bill is to provide an opportunity for these favorites to be seen next week.

"The Lottery Man" Cyril Scott's original role of the reporter will be played by Henry Mortimer.

Lumber Wagon Wheels Pass Over Boy's Body

With Probable Internal Injuries, ten-year-old Abe Golden is at the Homeopathic Hospital, where he was taken yesterday after the heavy wheels of a lumber wagon had passed across his body.

Physicians say that no bones are broken, but the child complains of pain in his chest.

Abe Golden lives at 486 P street. He and some of his playmates were romping in the street near his home yesterday when the lumber wagon, driven by Simon Carter, a negro, was passing. Abe fell under the wheels. Carter was taken to the Second precinct station by Policeman Cress, but was allowed to go on the assurance, given by his employer, that he will produce Carter any time the authorities wish to question him concerning the accident.
